MESSAGE from Our Chapter President John Huegel - Regarding Veterans and Xmas Cards

Dear friends and compatriots,

The signed Veterans Day cards prepared and organized by Ed and Julia Morris will be delivered November 1st to senior Veterans in assisted living facilities and mailed to local VFW and American Legion chapters.

Our stalwart friends, Ed and Julia are asking all members to bring any extra Christmas cards they may have to our Nov 3 meeting. They then can have the cards ready for our signing to give to other Veterans who did not get cards in November.

I hope you'll take this to heart and do what you can. Many sincere thanks to Ed and Julia and all those who can assist them.

Best regards,

John Huegel,

The General Society of Sons of the Revolution (Not to be confused with Sons of the American Revolution) was originaer Dec 18,, 1875 and founded on Febru at New York City, primarily by leading members of The Society of the Cincinnati and the businessman John Austin Stevens. He disagreed with Society of the Cincinnati requirements limiting membership to the eldest male descendants based on the rules of primogeniture. Stevens held a preliminary meeting on Dec, 18, 1875, at the New-York Historical Society at New York.^[9] At a second meeting held in January 1876, the first constitution was adopted and a flier which invited members was published.

The Society of the American Revolution was originated on July 4th 1876, In 1876, there were many celebrations to commemorate the centennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. As part of this patriotic fervor, a group of men in the San Francisco, California, area who were descendants of patriots involved in the American Revolution, formed an organization called the Sons of Revolutionary Sires. Their objective was to have a fraternal and civic society to salute those men and women who pledged their lives, fortunes, and sacred honor to the battle for independence from Great Britain.

The Sons of Revolutionary Sires desired to keep alive their ancestors' story of patriotism and courage in the belief that it is a universal one of man's struggle when they would have to defend and extend our freedoms.

Sons of the Revolution

After a few years of little activity, an elaborate "turtle feast" was held on December 4, 1883, in the Long Room of historic Fraunces Tavern. The banquet was to Commemorate the centennial of General George Washington's farewell there to his

The 1883 dinner helped recruit 40 new members, and the group was reorganized as the Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York Inc. In the early years after the reorganization, Society of the Cincinnati President-General Hamilton Fish gave much support and encouragement to the New York Society. In his obituary, he described Sons members as, "Younger brothers of the Cincinnati".

Formation of Sons of the Revolution state societies

Besides residents of New York City, many gentlemen from nearby states with business or other ties in New York City had, from the beginning, been either members or prospective members of the Society. The possibility that some of them might eventually form societies in their own states had been recognized in the Society Constitution.

The growth in the number of members by 1888 made this a more promising likelihood.¹ The first of the new State Societies, the Pennsylvania Society of Sons of the Revolution was organized on April 3, 1888. This was accomplished chiefly through the efforts of John W. Jordan, later librarian of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and Josiah Granville Leach.

The creation of a new State Society in Pennsylvania started a debate over the Society Constitution. Of primary concern was who would charter or create new State Societies. The Pennsylvania Society was created by members; independent of the New York Society. On March 11, 1889, The Sons of the Revolution in the District of Columbia was chartered by the New York Society. This debate was resolved by the creation of the General Society and a new Constitution on April 18, 1890. The General Society charters new societies but, "The State Societies shall regulate all matters respecting their own affairs".

Formation of the Society of the American Revolution

Out of the Sons of Revolutionary Sires grew the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, which was organized on April 30, 1889, the one hundredth anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington as our nation's first president. The SAR have used the acronym SAR to identify themselves for over one hundred years. descendants of the patriots who wintered at Valley Forge, signed the Declaration of Independence, fought in the battles of the American Revolution, served in the Continental Congress, or otherwise supported the cause of American Independence.

General society of the Sons of the Revolution formation[

The Sons of the Revolution plaque in Washington DC.

Recognizing that members from states other than New York might form state societies in their states, the group's officers amended its constitution in 1884 to provide that state societies may organize as "auxiliary branches." Consequently, the Pennsylvania society was formed in 1888, and the District of Columbia society was formed in 1889.

The General Society constitution was proposed on February 12, 1890, in Philadelphia and adopted on March 8, 1890, in New York. Members of the three state societies held a meeting on April 19, 1890, in Washington to inaugurate the General Society.

In the next few years, several more state societies were formed and the General Society developed a more national character. The General Society of Sons of the Revolution in the District of Columbia was chartered by the New York Society. The General Society charters new societies but, "The State Societies shall regulate all matters respecting their own affairs". Society of the Sons of the Revolution is a Confederation

Founding of the Society of the sons of the Revolution in the state of California

The Society of the Sons of the Revolution in the State of California was founded on May 15, 1893 in Los Angeles, California. Today, it is one of the largest State Societies of the sons of the Revolution, in the Nation.

California has a library;

while New York Society has Faunces Tavern.

Membership is open to qualified male descendants of an individual who, as a military, naval or marine officer, sailor or marine, saw active service in that capacity under the authority of any of the thirteen (13) Colonies or States, or of the Continental Congress, and remained always loyal to such authority, or to a male descendant of an individual who signed the Declaration of Independence, or of an individual who, as a member of the Continental Congress or of the Congress of any of the thirteen (13) Colonies or States, or as an Official appointed by or under the authority of any such legislative bodies, actually assisted in the establishment of American Independence by services rendered during the War of the Revolution, becoming thereby liable to conviction or treason against the Government of Great Britain, but remained always loyal to the authority of the Colonies or States. To qualify for membership, such service must have been performed between April 19, 1775 and April 19, 1783.

The Sons of the American Revolution is National (federal) Organization.

The National Society Sons of the American Revolution (NASAR) was chartered by an Act of the United States Congress on June 9, 1906.

The charter was signed by President Theodore Roosevelt, who was also a member of the Empire State Society, SAR. of

The charter authorizes the granting of charters to societies of the various states and territories and authorizes the state-level societies to charter chapters within their borders. A Federal Legislation then established a federal charter for the National Society, SAR.

The Headquarters of the NSSAR is in Louisville, Kentucky

The Headquarters of the General Society of the Sons of the Revolution is in Williamsburg, Virginia.

To Save Statues, Images, Roads, Towns, Schools of Men and Women of the American

The Society of Cincinnati, the oldest American Veterans and Patriot organization, has implemented the American Revolution institute, which is open to both men and women, to all Americans to save American Revolutionary History against those who would want to take down and destroy statues, names of roads, schools, towns, images on American bills, etc. of American Patriots from the Revolutionary War.

The AMERICAN REVOLUTION INSTITUTE: Take a public stand against efforts to dismantle memorials

The Florentine writer Machiavelli has a bad reputation. His name is tied to cunning and unscrupulous conduct we call Machivellian “ He deserves better. He was actually a sophisticated political philosopher much admired by the leaders of the American Revolution` -not for “ Machiavellian “ strategies, It ought to be remembered “Machiavelli “ that there is nothing more difficult to take in hand, more perilous to conduct , or more uncertain in its success than to take the lead in the introduction of a new order of things. Because innovator has for enemies all those who have done well under the old conditions, and lukewarm defenders in those who may do well under the new. The coolness arises partly from fear of the opponental ...and partly from the incredibility of men, who donot readily believe in new things until they have had a long experience of them”

Although there are hundreds of historical organizations and many associated with the American Revooluion in some way, our Instititue is the only one committed to a very specific goal to ensure that Americans understand and appreciate the constructive accomplishments of the Revolution. It isn't easy. Although millions sympathize with our goal, transforming education about the Revolution in the kind of “ new order of things” that Machiavelli warned us is the difficulty most people have in believing in something new.

Quilt of Valor: It has been a great honor to have hand-made quilts presented to our veterans (Frank Kebelman, Bruce Plummer)! The latest has been presented to Wayne Rogers finally at the Riverside Chapter, who, instead dedicates it to his name sake Wayne J Rogers. Let me not forget those who sacrificed for my liberty and freedom.

Per Riverside SAR Chapter Secretary Fred Schulster, -Uni Fosdyke and Diane Stephens presented and reported - Wayne Rogers with a Quilt of Honor.

- While I, Wayne Rogers, served in the Army between 1965 and 1970 during the Vietnam War, I never went to Vietnam and also previously after being in the Peace Corps, so I, Wayne J. Rogers dedicate this Quilt of Valor and Honor to a 'very special' Corporal and Squad Leader of a fire team, Wayne J. Rogers, my namesake during the Vietnam War, who was killed in Vietnam 50 years ago (Nov 27, 1968).

- Wall Name:WAYNE J ROGERS, the husband of Helen M. Hernandez whom he married February 16, 1968
- Date of Birth:12/31/1944
- Date of Casualty:11/27/1968, 23 years of age.
- Home of Record:HANFORD

Later In the 1990s I, Wayne with several Professional friends got lost on the Esplande in Washington DC near the Lincoln Memorial , and we found ourselves at near night time at the Vietnam Wall. One friend called out- “Wayne your name is on the Wall” I laughed nervously, because I could not correlate to it. The next day on an airplane to Raleigh, NC, I read a newspaper article indicating some computer mistakes had been made on the Vietnam Wall. This disturbed me and I was anxious to learn and know more. So, three months later when I. returned to Wwashington, DC, to work on some International Standards, I went over to the Vietnam Wall and read his name. Wayne J. Rogers, from a book on the high lawn, about those whose names were on the Wall. While reading it, from a time (nevermore left behind me), I remembered him. I remembered him as one whom I had long time ago performed part of one his many physical(s), prior to his death. At the time of the physical we laughed that we had and shared the exact same name, to the very middle initial, Wayne J Rogers. He too was also from California, with the same middle initial; only his middle name is Jonathan, while mine is Jerome.

50 Years now come and other years fade away, but I now remember him, and I do not forget History anymore of what was so painful to close a door back then. His Valor is not forgotten. After Vietnam he was buried in the Calvery Cemetery, Hanford, California. Again, this Quilt of Valor , I RECEIVED, is in his honor and is remembrance of him, not me!

God bless him and keep him,

Lord let your face shine upon him and be gracious unto him.

Lord lift up your contenance upon him and give him (and I) peace.

May the Good Lord bless him and keep him until we meet again.

“The further back you look into the past, the farther forward you may see into the future” (Winston Churchill, the master prophet)

According to Steve Jobs. you cannot connect the dots in the future before you, without looking back in history at the dots behind you, to interconnect.

The greatest historian should be a great moralist. Able to paint for the life of plain people the ordinary men and women of the times of which he writes- Theodore Roosevelt= Past masters

Histories are not ours. They belong partly to those who created them and partly to the generations of people who follow.

Without history and past informative data, there may be gaps

History show where mysteries still exist, accumulation and finalize

There are no doubt that past and present events do shape those of the future

A History is apt to provide for incremental, small to large alternatives to existing traditional and standard processes

“What is new and significant must always relate to old roots, the truly vital roots that are chosen with great care from the ones that merely survive

Through history, something old and unapplied in one period or scenario can become new again in another.

Factual History is disappearing, as books, cultures, demographics, education, generations, memories, religions, traditions and purposes, times and education are changing.

Why should we honor or sustain George Washington?

Many statues of George Washington exist around the country, including one in front of the Anderson House the headquarters of the Society of the Cincinnati (1783), the oldest lineage and veteran's organization in United States of America. George Washington was the Society's first President and the Country's

But today there is a movement to demolish statues, memories, and histories of slave owners throughout the country. Money with President's image (e.g. Andrew Jackson) who was slave owner is to be eliminated. Similarly, in the future Washington may be removed and eliminated from the dollar bill. So, it is only a matter of time before statues and memories of George Washington could be removed and torn down from history.

We currently live in a world of ease, freedom and protest, but when George Washington was born into his world, it was ruled by Kings, rulers, authorities where it was difficult to live, to be free, or protest. Servitude (including indentured servants) and slaves and were common, particularly in the south. The right to practice free speech or action in public life was limited to men only of property. People were servants, not citizens, but subject to Kings, Rulers, and a non-representative government. No one had the right to talk or worship freely; they were increasingly subordinate to higher authorities, rulers and Kings. Worse than that, women had no rights, but were subordinate to men of power, and their talents were silenced and stifled, and they had not civil rights. While we live a world of freedom, George Washington times were filled with grotesque human injustices, the opposite of our current minds.

George Washington was born and raised into privilege and wealth compared to most Americans of that time. By 43 years of age he had secured further wealth and fortune and influence. But he risked everything to sign the Declaration of Independence and to command an army to obtain and secure liberty and independence for the United States. While he was educated, his army was of ordinary men, farmers, fishermen and tradesmen, both young and old from the time from all over the 13 colonies. He commanded and led this army through trials and tribulations that few people of today could have endured,

George Washington was not perfect, but he helped with many of his officers to create a framework, the Constitution to make this nation more perfect. At the end of his life he freed his slaves as an example to others. When that which is perfect comes then that which is imperfect shall be done away with.

The American Revolution Institute is charged with carrying out a historic mission of preserving the legacy of George Washington and his officers and their troops who were victorious in the glorious movement of the revolutionary war. Now you can join them to continue and support their cause as a founding associate of the American Revolution Institute, of the Society of the Cincinnati. George Washington and his officers created the Society of the Cincinnati, to carry out and continue their victories and work to have a free and independent nation and to remember their legacies perpetually their descendants. Now All men and women who value their legacy of the American Revolution, are invited to join as founding associates of the American Revolution Institute of the Society of the Cincinnati.

You will be joining the work of an organization as old as our republic founded by George Washington and his officers and their troops of the Revolution themselves.

The Earliest American Bald Eagle is from the Society of the Cincinnati by Pierre L'Enfant. He noted, in making his suggestion: "The Bald Eagle, which is peculiar to this continent, and is distinguished from those of other climes by its white head and tail, appears to me to deserve attention." The Eagle has the longest life span of its species. It can live up to 70 years. But to reach this age it must make a hard decision, in its 40s. Its long and flexible talons can no longer grab prey which serves as food. Its long and sharp beak becomes bent. Its old aged and heavy feathers due to their thick features become stuck to the chest and make it difficult to fly. Thus, the Eagle has only two options die or go through a painful process of change which lasts over 150 days. The process requires the eagle to fly to a mountain top sit on its nest. There, the Eagle knocks its beak against a rock until it plucks it out. After plucking it out the beak will wait for a new beak to grow back and then it will pluck out its talons. When the talons grown back the eagle will start plucking out old aged feathers. And after five months the eagle takes the famous flight of re-birth and will fly for another 30 more years. Amazing.
